Price, Hightower contest seen as close race

Congressional race headlines Tuesday ballot

A congressional race which outside observers predict will end in a close vote headlines the long slate of elective contests on the ballot for Randall County voters Tuesday.

Polls will open Tuesday at 8 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. at the county's rural precinct voting places, and will open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. in city precincts.

A light vote has been predicted by local observers who base their projection on a small number of absentee ballots cast last week in the county clerk's office. However, County Clerk LeRoy Hutton has noted that Randall County voters historically turn out to vote and that many of the larger precincts experience as much as 90 percent voter turnout even in off-year elections.

More than 31,000 persons are registered to vote in the Tuesday balloting.

The key contest

While few of the contests have raised campaign voter interest to the levels experienced in the 1972 presidential election, the race between Incumbent U.S. Congressman Bob Price and State Sen. Jack Hightower has caused some stir.

Price, a veteran of four congressional sessions in Washington, has campaigned only twice in Canyon, once in the spring before primary balloting and again about a week ago when he visited the West Texas State University campus. He is a Republican.

Hightower, a 10-year veteran of the state senate, has popped in and out of the county throughout the campaign which began in earnest last February. The Vernon attorney was the winner by a wide margin over two Amarilloans in the Democratic primary race last May.

Veteran political observers in other areas of the state have predicted the Price-Hightower race will be a close one.

A Dallas Morning News political analyst, writing in late October, predicted the campaign success of Price will hinge on his ability to shed himself of the party image. Noting that Price stayed in Washington until the late recess before returning to the Panhandle to begin his campaign, the analyst predicts this fact may hurt the incumbent.

The Washington correspondent for another Dallas paper has also predicted the Price-Hightower race will be a close one.

Both Price and Hightower have conducted wide-ranging money-raising activities and both have garnered more than $200,000 for their races.

The crux of the Hightower campaign has been the nation's economic ills, but the legislator has failed to come up with a complete and viable solution to counter the measures proposed by President Ford.

In his most recent visit to Canyon, Hightower proposed formation of a congressional watchdog agency to periodically investigate each federally-funded program as to its effectiveness and the need for its existence.

Price, in his two Canyon stops, has not campaigned in the general sense of the term. He has, rather, spent his time describing legislation facing the Congress and his feelings on particular bills. Price attacked the 13th District's two largest newspapers in his last visit to the city, telling students that a long-time Democrat owns one in Wichita Falls and that the Amarillo paper deliberately misconstrued a campaign loan.

The statehouse fight

While various state-wide races are also on the ballot, more voter interest has probably been generated here in races of more local nature.

Headlining races of local interest is the contest for the seat in the state legislature from the 65th District between Bob Simpson, an Amarillo attorney running on

Buff lose to Cards

The only thing the powerful West Texas State University defense couldn't stop Saturday afternoon in Kimbrough Stadium was the toe of Jabo Leonard.

The 184-pound junior kicker from Mont Belvieu whapped three field goals, one a personal record, to give the Lamar University Cardinals their fifth win of the season over the Buffaloes by a slim 9-7 margin.

A lackluster Buffalo offense might have gained more scoreboard wattage but for ill-timed turn-overs which time and again broke offensive moves downfield.

The Buff defenders stopped in its tracks heretofore potent Cardinal aerial assault, and deadened an equally devastating ground assault, but Leonard was able to hit three field goals — one for 33 yards in the initial quarter, and two more for 24 and 45 yards in the final stanza.

Lamar took the lead in the homecoming outing with 3:01 remaining in the first quarter after an Eddie Richardson fumble was recovered on the Buffalo 19 by Harold Harris.

It took just four plays from that vantage point for the Cards to decide their best chance to score was on the toe of Leonard. He hit the ball from the West Texas 17 for the lead.

The Buffs threatened only once in the second period after the Cards were forced to punt from their own 14. Six plays moved the Buffs to the Lamar 23, but they were unable to move the final yards and called on kicker Bruce Wyre for a tie-making toe-hold. Wyre, who's had trouble with his field goal attempts on artificial turf, shot the ball wide to the left and the half ended with Lamar

Mrs. Harper is honored

Margaret Harper, founder of the famous musical-drama "TEXAS," was honored Friday by Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe with the award for the person who has contributed the most to Texas tourism.

Mrs. Harper, attending the 9th annual Texas Conference on Tourism at Padre Island, was presented a plaque for the award at the conclusion of the two-day meeting.

Giving her for her vision in creating the spark to make "TEXAS" a reality, the award presentation noted her contributions to the founding of the annual summer production through the years.

Mrs. Harper nearly a decade ago took the wisps of an idea for an outdoor production in Palo Duro Canyon, contacted a playwright and helped raise money and organize the company to perform the musical and dramatic history of the Panhandle.

For unregulated areas of state

Officials back utilities commission

Canyon representatives to a municipal conference last week backed a resolution amendment calling for the legislature to form a state-wide utilities commission to regulate rates charged and service given rural areas.

City Manager George Louder said he, Mayor Manly Bryan and Commissioner J. Pat Stephens supported an amendment proposed by Houston and area cities after their resolution calling for a commission to regulate utilities throughout the state was defeated by Texas Municipal League members in Fort Worth.

The amendment, which would have allowed municipalities to continue to regulate utilities within their city limits while providing for regulation of utilities in currently unregulated areas, was also defeated.

The Canyon officials returned from the TML meeting late Wednesday, after spending four days in Fort Worth. Louder was at the meeting last Saturday, serving on the resolutions committee.

The city manager said the TML membership finally voted favorably on a resolution submitted by Midland officials opposing creation of a Texas utilities commission. The resolution also calls for the state legislature, which begins meeting in January, to pass legislation to assist cities in regulating utilities.

He said the latter proposal refers to legislation which would codify rate bases, accounting principles and other variables now seen as arguably nebulous by Louder.

The resolutions committee meeting on Saturday was the scene of the major battle between city forces favoring creation of a utilities commission and those opposing such a commission.

Conflicting resolutions had been submitted by the mayor of Houston and officials from Midland. The Houston resolution contended that it is virtually impossible for individual cities — even those the size of that South Texas city — to effectively regulate utility companies due to the cost involved and the lack of staff expertise. The Midland resolution opposed creation of the commission, contending that Texans currently enjoy utility rates lower than rates charged citizens of other states, states which have regulative bodies at the state level.

Louder said the TML vote in opposition to a commission was (See BACK, Page 4)

Three months of rainfall leave 17 inches in Canyon

When it's wet, it's wet.

After a parched seven months, months which saw dryland wheat wither and grain sorghum gasp, the rains came and after three months of cloudy skies, Canyon now has a moisture total for the first 10 months of the year which is well ahead of the normal precipitation for a full year.

That's because since Aug. 1, Canyon has received 16.28 inches of rain, according to the official weather statistics compiled by the Canyon Fire Department.

For the 10 month period, the city has received 21.93 inches of moisture.

Only about eight inches of rain fell in the city from Aug. 1, 1973 through Aug. 1, 1974.

But, that dry spell, which spelled ruin for grain sorghum, wheat and cattle grazing in the county, ended with swampy weather and August recorded a record 8.11 inches of rain during the month.

Normal precipitation for August here is 2.58 inches and the largest previous amount of rainfall in an August was recorded in 1922 when 6.78 inches fell.

September, which saw far fewer thundershowers, was above normal in rainfall, also, with a total of 2.15 falling in Canyon.

Class of '25 remembered

Newsman recalls early days on beat

A University of Texas professor who was co-founder of the West Texas State University student newspaper and the first journalism teacher at WT returned to the campus last week to meet old friends and recall his rough and tumble undergraduate days.

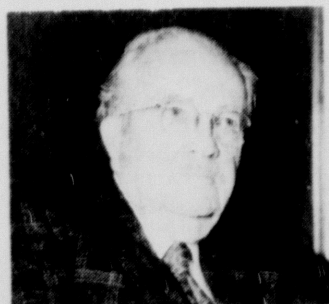

Prof. Olin Hinkle, who came to Canyon with his parents in 1919, returned to the city Thursday evening for university homecoming activities honoring the 50th anniversary of his graduating class — the class of 1925.

In a sense, his journey from downstate was also a return to a city where he served his journalistic childhood, and a newspaper which was the vehicle for that growth.

Hinkle, retired now after teaching journalism at UT for 26 years, began both his newspapering and his journalism teaching careers in Canyon and he chuckles now about his false start at a college education in the early 1920s.

The fact is, Hinkle allows, he was an undergraduate for six years at WT.

When he arrived on campus, he began what he believed would be his freshman year in college. The next year, he began his sophomore year.

But, a change in accreditation for the normal school pushed Hinkle back to the head of the line and he was forced to begin again his college career as a freshman.

Beginning a Career

It was during those early years that Hinkle met the son of a Tahoka newspaper editor and together they approached Clyde Warwick, then publisher of The Canyon News about the possibility of changing the normal school's monthly magazine into a full-fledged weekly newspaper. With the encouragement of Warwick and the leadership of Frank Hill and Hinkle, The Prairie was born.

At that time, there was no journalism department at the college and Hill and Hinkle and other would-be journalists depended on War-

Hightower contributions more than $100,000

With a campaign coffers nearly $100,000 lower than his opponent's, State Sen. Jack Hightower has reported spending $117,000 in his bid for the congressional seat from the 13th District.

The Hightower for Congress Committee, filing a campaign funds statement in Austin last week, reported contributions since January of $119,629 and expenditures of $117,337.

Hightower's opponent on Tuesday's general election ballot, U.S. Rep. Bob Price, reported earlier in the week spending more than $206,000 during his campaign, which dates since the May primary elections. Price also reported contributions of more than $209,000.

The Hightower committee reports receiving contributions from 423 individuals during the reporting period which encompasses the month of October. Contributions also came from the Real Estate Political Education Committee for $250, the Political Action Committee on Education for $150, the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee for $2000, and the Committee for Action for $1000.

Biggest contributions from individuals came from R.E. Chambers, a Wichita Falls lawyer; M.J. Templeton, a Houston oilman; Buster Carter, a Pampa rancher; Jack Banner, a Wichita Falls lawyer; F.O. Masten, a Wellington farmer; and J.W. Bragg, an Amarillo businessman. Those individuals contributed $500 each.

Democrat Bob Simpson, an

Amarillo attorney seeking election Tuesday to the state representative seat from this district, reported contributions for his campaign of $14,753 through last week. Expenses totaled $11,730.

Simpson, who faces Republican John Kennehan on the Tuesday ballot, reported 10 individual contributions during the reporting period, plus $200 from LIFT, an attorney political committee; $200 from DenPak, a dentists association; $300 from MPAC, a manufacturers association; $100 from Texas Food Service political action committee; and $500 from The Political Action Committee of Texas.

Individuals contributing large amounts to his campaign include $100 each from W.J. Helm.

Our World Should Vote

By ANN BROWN

The United States long ago dropped all pretense of being a republic (government by law). How long can we keep up the pretense of being a democracy? A democracy is ruled by the majority. Approximately 1 percent of Americans have turned this nation into an armed camp. Honest citizens are driven to locks and bars while criminals loot, shoot, and kill at will.

In Amarillo, an elderly woman's screams were ignored in a crowded laundry while she was beaten and robbed in the back room. The thugs walked out unmolested through the crowd.

How can such citizens cause the police for lawlessness? Given half a chance, the police usually jail the lawbreakers — often at the risk of their own lives. But police jurisdiction ends at the jail.

The police and decent citizens — the vast majority — want criminals jailed and punished. A tiny minority composed of lawyers and judges, irresponsible juries and lax parole boards set them free.

In a non-binding referendum, Boston voted 13-1 against busing. The buses continue to roll amid rapes, brawls, knifings, and stonings. The police patrol the roofs for snipers. The National Guard has been mobilized, and the state police called out to keep order among people who would give no trouble if the majority ruled.

Numerous reputable polls have shown 85 percent nationwide oppose busing, but the buses roll on. Senators predict a unanimous confirmation of Nelson Rockefeller, although they admit their mail is running 12-1 against him.

Cattlemen have no desire to pen their cattle in smelly feedlots and stuff them with high priced feed until they become huge balls of fat.

Consumers resent having to spend their limited food dollars for fat they must throw away or risk gall bladder trouble, heart disease, and related maladies.

If neither producers nor consumers want fat beef why do we have it? Because a few men in Washington who know nothing about cattle and less about cooking say so.

Battle Fatigue

By CARROLL WILSON

A month ago, Brother John joined up. A 13-month veteran of the Korea of recent times, he volunteered.

We gathered at his home, my wife, daughters, father and I and watched with tears in our eyes as John kissed his wife of three years goodbye, pulled on his combat boots, and olive-drab field jacket, loaded into his car two cases of C-rations he'd confiscated while on German field maneuvers in the late '60s, and pulled away from the curb with a gallant wave and farewell smile.

"I'm volunteerin'," he'd told us only the night before, with a reddened face and gritted teeth. "It's my patriotic duty."

Gathered at his home (he's the only one among us who can afford a television set) to watch President Ford's message to the nation on the state of the economy, we watched as John gripped his beer can, the patriotic fervor reaching the boiling point as Ford threw down the gauntlet, a challenge to Americans to join the battle against inflation.

We'd learned to expect the unexpected from John, who volunteered for the Army at the height of the Vietnam War.

"I'm gonna get me a bureaucrat," he proclaimed shortly before he left on President Ford's crusade, cradling an imaginary M-14 in his arms, a hurriedly-made, hand-sketched WIN button attached to the breast of his OD jacket.

The hero returned last week, his Crusade ended, C-rations gone, proud that he'd served, but disappointed we had not arranged for brass band and gilded banners.

On Voter Responsibility

A GUEST EDITORIAL

By W. L. SHELLEY

By nature I am a student of politics, by profession I am a political scientist. Thus, it is only natural that I, along with many others, am concerned with the degree of citizen participation in Tuesday's general election. This concern for more, not less, involvement in the voting process is based on the belief that there exists a direct relationship between the willingness of the individual to accept his responsibility as a voter, and our willingness as a people to support our elected representatives once they have been chosen.

In this process the voter is not asked to resolve the complicated problems that both our state and nation face; however, he is asked to share the responsibility of choosing those who will deal with these problems on our behalf. Voting is not an empty gesture as some cynics might suggest. It lies at the foundation of our constitutional system, and although that system may not always protect us from our mistakes, it does enable us, if we are willing, to correct those mistakes.

Others will fail to vote, not because they have been disillusioned, but because this is not a presidential election. Is this a valid reason? Perhaps, one of our major shortcomings as a political society has been that we have shown too little interest and concern in our state and local offices, while claiming to be another that government closest to the people is the best. Government at the state and local level can only be the best if these offices are filled by the best people, and this definitely demands greater citizen participation at this level in the election process. At the state and local level, some will claim that the ballot is too long and since they know very little about the candidates, why vote? You may know more about the candidates than you give yourself credit for, and where you know nothing, what is wrong with putting some faith in your political party? In this situation party identification can be a help, not a hindrance to the voter. Even though state and local elections lack the drama and excitement of presidential elections, we must remember that we are not called upon to evaluate drama and excitement, rather we are called upon to evaluate people and what they stand for.

A MORAL ACT

Man is a creature of many dimensions, and his political dimension can be heightened by political participation. In our society, voting is the most widely used method of political participation. But the act of voting is moral as well as political, for it demands that we choose between and among alternative causes. And as William James once said, "The difference between a good man and a bad one is the choice of the cause." The act of voting, and the fair count-

An Experienced Parent Cites Bus Disorder

Dear Carroll,

I don't know why I'm writing. Our kids have graduated and are out of the problem situation in which we lived for seven years. But Joe Turpin and J. D. Barker are two of the finest guys I know, and I feel that some of us who can see why they voted as they did on the annexation problem should also stand up and be counted with them.

The incident of the little girl sitting in the floor of the bus brings to mind at least two incidents I can remember. One — the time a child got nauseated on the bus and got sick all over our youngest. She rode home in that condition, and she never wore those clothes again. Two — our other child had been sick with flu, and the first day she was back in school, the bus driver allowed the kids to open all windows and play "freeze-out" on a cold day. The next day she was out again. I could give you more hairy tales, but I'll spare you! Suffice it to say that I can see the problem from two sides, since I live in the never-never area, and we've experienced the chauffeuring the worrying about teen-agers going and coming after night activities, and the final dropping out of band by both girls, because of working parents who couldn't chauffeur enough.

There's no easy solution. It's going to take patience, tolerance, and an earnest attempt on the part of both factions to try to see the problems of the other.

Sincerely,
Rowena Dilworth

Canyon Volunteers Fight Fires

Editor's note: The following is a new feature of the Canyon News, focusing on the Canyon Volunteer Fire Department and its efforts at preventing and fighting fires in the city. The information is compiled by the Fire Department.

Canyon firemen spent 61 man-hours in October fighting fires in city and rural areas as they responded to three city building fires, two county building fires, and two non-building fires.

Statistics for October indicate that so far this year, the volunteers have fought 44 city fires and 42 county fires and have expended a total of 1294 man-hours fighting fires. That compares with 65 city and 52 county fires fought last year to date with a total of 1125 man-hours spent.

In addition, the firemen have been involved in 14 drills and three rescue calls.

While still in college, Hinkle signed on with Warwick as a printer's devil and looked to the publisher for guidance on his founding career.

"We had more than an employer-employee relationship," Hinkle says of the late publisher. "He was my friend, my banker and my teacher."

It was Warwick, he said, who made it possible for Hinkle to pursue his journalism career.

During his final school year, Hinkle was encouraged by a University of Missouri journalism professor to further his education at the prestigious school. Unsure, Hinkle asked Warwick for advice.

"I talked it over with Clyde Warwick and he argued against it," Hinkle said. "He said 'you already know what they'd teach you.'"

Nevertheless, Hinkle decided to attend the Missouri school and Warwick bankrolled the experience.

"He wrote me a check for $500 and said 'here, now get out of town,'" Hinkle recalls.

Bryan Poff, a Democrat, and his opponent, Connally Lockhart, a Republican, both candidates for the bench of the 47th District Court, are running neck and neck on campaign finances.

Poff reported contributions to date of $13,018 with expenditures of $15,798. He lists 21 individual contributions during the reporting period, including $500 from B.M. Brittain; $200 from Dr. Louis Finney of Amarillo; $200 from H.A. Perry of Amarillo; and $200 from Jerry Johnson of Amarillo.

Lockhart reports contributions to date of $11,053 and expenditures of $10,583. During the past month he has received 13 individual contributions plus five loans from himself totalling $648. His largest contribution came from R.C. Jordan of Amarillo for $200.

At the county level, only Charles Hogan, a Democrat seeking to unseat County Clerk LeRoy Hutton, had not reported early last week. Hogan's finance statement indicates he has spent $1257 on his campaign during October and $1614 throughout his campaign.

While Hogan's campaign expenditure statement did not list any contributors, he told The News he had received no contributions and the money expended was loans to himself.

Canyon News, because 'that's where I got started.'

The KKK

A number of incidents stand out in Hinkle's mind from those early Canyon News days with Warwick. He remembers his mentor as a meticulous man who advised the young Hinkle to take to the streets, pad in hand, to interview everyone he saw to learn what they were doing.

Warwick, he says, would advise his protegee that when two men were talking on the street corner, he should expect to find three stories — one each from the men, and one on who they were talking about.

"It's a fact that Warwick carried on a bitter opposition to the Klu Klux Klan and wrote editorials about it and received threats against his life as a result," he said.

On one occasion, Warwick sent Hinkle to the cattle loading corral near the railroad tracks to check up on the starting point of an anticipated KKK rally through the Canyon streets.

Hiding in a cattle car, the young Hinkle saw the klansmen don robes, sheets and headgear, light their torches and begin their march, designed as a show of strength.

"They did march majestically through town," he said. And, as they marched, he followed.

"I got too close to the rear and they pulled a pistol on me and told me not to come within 100 yards of the rear," Hinkle said.

Class Fight

Not all Hinkle's recollections concern the newspaper business. He recalls, for example, an event he terms The Great Class Fight which occurred between the sophomore and freshman class.

It was tradition in those days for each class to fly its own class flag on the campus on varying days, Hinkle said, but one day the freshmen hoisted their flag and took down the sophomore flag, a flagrant and blatant challenge.

Led by a peppery class president, J. Evetts Haley, the sophomores vowed to remove the freshman flag.

He describes the action:

"The only thing we could figure was to get some cars and fill them with daring sophomores and drive onto campus at high speed, get under the flagpole and get a ring of sophomores around it with (water) guns filled with ammonia. We hoped that would hold the freshmen back."

Readying the implementation of their plan, the sophomores went to town and purchased the water guns and asked the local pharmacist to fill them with ammonia. Hinkle surmises that the ammonia content was weakened to a great extent by water because the water gun protection was worthless.

The sophomores loaded into cars, armed with four shotguns, and roared onto campus, blasting away with birdshot at the freshman flag.

A freshman spy rang the class bell warning classmates of the challenge and Hinkle recalls seeing a throng of younger class members storm from buildings to converge on the far outnumbered sophomores.

"They all left class and they outnumbered us about 10 to 1 and they landed on us with flying tackles," he said. "Why somebody was not killed I can't imagine."

Not killed, perhaps, but Hinkle received two cracked ribs from the affray.

After leaving West Texas and pursuing further education at Missouri, Hinkle was called back to the campus by then President Joseph Hill to teach journalism and handle public relations for the college.

He spent 10 years teaching newspapering, photography and handling sports public relations and then joined the Army Air Corps for a 30-month stint.

On the Press

In 1946, Hinkle was offered a job at the University of Texas.

After 50 years in the news business, Hinkle has some definite ideas on the press in America and he sees recent national criticism levelled at the media as both justified and overly harsh.

The criticism is justified, he believes, because Watergate and surrounding events were covered so extensively by the press that other issues of major national concern were overlooked, issues such as the health of the economy or the strength of the energy industry.

The future of the newspaper as an American institution is on firm footing, Hinkle believes, if the theory that the electronic media can handle only so many words per day to be seen by only one set of eyes per viewer.

The bright future is assured, though, only if the newspaper industry continues a courageous stance on local issues, providing local coverage which the electronic media can only skim.

owning a 3-0 lead.

The Bufs' only successful drive of the afternoon came early in the second half after the defense again forced Lamar to punt, this time to Rick Mordecai on the Lamar 47.

Key play in the eight-play series came when Tully Blanchard hit Tracy Dickson on the 14 for 22 yards. Two plays later, Blanchard again took to the air, this time hitting Merced Solis for 19 yards and the touchdown.

Wyre's PAT was good and the game stood at 7-3 with 10:12 remaining in the third quarter.

Early in the fourth quarter, the Cardinals called on the toe of Leonard again as they were unable to successfully cap a 40-yard drive with paydirt. Leonard made good for 24 yards with 9:24 remaining giving the Cards only a one-point deficit.

Six minutes later, the Cards were on the scoreboard again, this time calling on Leonard when stopped at the Buffalo 28 after eight plays. With only 48 seconds on the clock, Leonard hit a 45-yarder for the go-ahead points.

On the first play from scrimmage in the next series of downs, Blanchard attempted a pass only to have it intercepted by Lamar's Hill who returned it for a touchdown. The score was called back after officials charged the Cards with clipping, but the football game was their's as they ran out the clock.

Lamar ended the outing with 10 first downs compared to 9 for the Bufs. They had 156 yards rushing while West Texas had 114 and they had only 6 yards passing compared to 41 for the Bufs.

five are microfilmed for security purposes. He plans to initiate a full microfilming system for recording instruments in the future and county commissioners have already expressed initial approval of that plan.

Cost of the equipment, he said, would be between $10,000 and $15,000 but that money would be recouped in savings in the first year of operation.

Hutton says he's content to stand on his record in his reelection bid, and he likes to point to the voting system in the county as an example.

Randall County was the first county in the state to use punch-card voting which utilizes a computer to count the ballots.

Through use of the West Texas State University computer center, votes from county voters can be counted in fewer than two hours on election night. Many counties in the state, including Lubbock County and Wichita County, are still using paper ballots.

"Our labor cost for the election in 1972 was about 19 cents per voter," Hutton said. "In some paper ballot counties, the cost is over $2 per ballot because of the time they take in counting the ballots."

Because Randall was the first county to use the computerized operation, Hutton has been

The normal is 1.89.

October was another big rain month for the city with a total of 6.02 inches of rain, a near record-breaking amount. Normal rainfall in October is 1.76 inches and the high amount was recorded in 1941 when 7.64 inches fell during the month.

Normal rainfall total for a year in the area is 19.67 inches and Canyon is already two inches ahead of that during the first 10 months with a 21.93 inch total.

called to other counties in the state to serve as an advisor on computerization.

The incumbent also serves as area leader for Panhandle county clerks in the state clerks' association.

Challenger Hogan, an Amarilloan since 1924, has spent his career in the plumbing supply business in Amarillo and other area towns.

He owned Charles Hogan Plumbing Supplies in Amarillo until the late 1960s when he sold out to his long-time employees.

An admitted novice in politics, Hogan says he's seeking office primarily "to keep busy, to surround myself with younger people" and because "I think everyone should give some time to politics or government."

Hogan admitted he is not now familiar with the current operation of the clerk's office, but said he assumes there are some problems in the office as the county makes the transition from rural to urban dominance.

He said he feels competent to handle the record-keeping chores in the office, having been a corporate officer for a number of years.

Funeral Services Held For Wildorado Resident

Bill (H. C.) Martin, 71 of Wildorado died Friday morning at 7 a.m. at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo. He had lived in Wildorado since 1957.

He moved to Wildorado from Canyon. He married Eula Lee Vester at Texico, New Mexico on May 26, 1926.

Born August 10, 1903 at Corvett County, Texas, he was a retired farmer and member of the church, officiating. Burial was in Palo Duro Cemetery at Wildorado.

Funeral services were held Friday at 3 p.m. at Palo Duro Baptist Church at Wildorado by Rev. Robert Fields, pastor of the church. Officiating. Burial was in Palo Duro Cemetery at Wildorado.

Pall bearers were Tommy Jarnagan, Don Kimball, Ben Moore, Tommy Wells, Harry Fuqua, and Ralph Rice.

based on two underlying fears — that cities have now recaptured at least some power and decision-making ability from the federal government and the state and should not be parties to giving up any of that power, and that any utilities commission formed by the legislature would be oriented in favor of the utility companies.

The city manager said it was obvious from the arguments posed for and against a utilities commission that different areas of the state have different needs in relation to a utilities commission.

In the coastal areas of the state, for example, some small cities have as many as three telephone companies, and all are plagued by repeated rate hike requests.

Louder said he feels if the legislature can come up with sound laws laying the groundwork for utilities regulation for cities, the cities can become more effective in regulating utilities.

And, he predicts another bout over the utilities commission in the coming legislative session, when Houston and other coastal cities will probably lobby independently for establishment of a commission.

Before going to the TML meeting, Louder told The News the cities of Texas must be given more effective tools with which to deal with companies such as Southwestern Public Service Co., Pioneer Natural Gas Co., and Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. He cited the West Texas Utilities Committee, an ad hoc group of city officials, as an example of the kind of coalition now necessary to pool resources to investigate rate increase requests from utilities.

He predicts that "it is very likely we will have some state-type agency created" by the legislature next session.

the Democratic ticket, and John Kenenah, an Amarillo businessman on the GOP side.

Simpson, whose father served in the legislature several years ago, and Kenenah, a political novice, are seeking the seat to be vacated Jan. 1, by Bryan Poff, a Democrat seeking the district judgeship.

Simpson has concentrated on a media-type campaign in the 65th District which encompasses Canyon, Randall County and a portion of Amarillo and Armstrong County. He has spoken to classes at the university and has promoted the idea of a citizens session to formulate a new Texas constitution.

Kenenah, also hitting the airwaves and the news pages with his campaign, has spent a good many hours pounding pavement to solicit support. He vowed last week to knock on 1000 doors in Canyon and has been seen virtually every day this week at local households.

Kenenah has concentrated his campaign on emphasis for the need for fewer attorneys in Austin.

Race for the bench

Another race of some local interest is the contest pitting Canyon attorney Poff against an Amarillo attorney, Connally Lockhart. The race began as a low-key campaign, but during recent days generated some heat with accusation and cross-accusation from each candidate concerning the campaign practices of the opponent. The winner of the contest will fill the 47th District Court seat being vacated by the retirement of E. E. "Gene" Jordan.

County-wide races will also be on the ballot for Tuesday, with the contest between County Clerk LeRoy Hutton, a Republican, and Charles Hogan, a Democrat.

Hutton, who's served since 1967 as the county clerk, is basing his campaign on what he points to as improvements made in the operation of the office, while Hogan simply states he has no axe to grind in taking Hutton on.

Robert E. McClendon, an Amarillo-Canyon attorney, is seeking the county treasurer's job on the Democratic side of the ballot and Mrs. Marty Schantz, a Republican school teacher, is his opponent.

McClendon, who's spent virtually no money in his campaign, has vowed to attempt to abolish the office once elected, while Mrs. Schantz has said she believes the office can be of real service to the county. Incumbent Mrs. Ruth Hill, a Democrat, will retire in January from the office.

While not touching voter interest in Canyon, two races for county commissioner seats are up for grabs on the ballot.

Incumbent John A. Fulgenzi, an Amarillo construction firm owner and a Republican, goes against challenger Otha V. Barbee, an Amarillo businessman.

Fulgenzi has served one term on the court, representing Precinct 2.

The seat to be vacated by Amarillo insuranceman Bill Butler in January is being sought by two candidates, Dee Griffin, Sr., a Republican, and Bill C. Moore, a Democrat.

State seats sought

The Texas gubernatorial race heads the state-wide ballot with Incumbent Democratic Gov. Dolph Briscoe facing opposition from the Republicans who present Jim Granberry of Lubbock, the Rasa Unida Party with Ramsey Muniz, the Socialist Workers Party with Sherry Smith and the American Party with S. W. McDonnell.

Incumbent Democratic Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, a Houston newspaper executive, faces competition from Republican Gaylord Marshall and Socialist Workers Party Dan Fein.

Taxes Being Paid

Even with the money-squeeze, Randall County families are paying their taxes to city, school and county just as they have in the past.

Local tax collectors said last week they figure taxes poured into their coffers during October at a rate comparable to the rate noted in years past.

Usually about 70 per cent of the tax rolls in the county's two tax offices comes in during October, when a three per cent discount is available.

Conway Kuykendall, tax collector for the City of Canyon and the Canyon Independent School District, said taxes are approaching the 70 per cent level in his office even though several major lending firms in Amarillo have not yet submitted their taxes for the hundreds of home loans in the area.

Usually, he said the loan companies pay home loan taxes by Oct. 15, but at least three major loan companies had not paid by Friday.

Mrs. Audrey Bruse, county tax collector, said tax collections appear to be up slightly in her office over previous years.

In 1973, the percentage of the tax roll paid in October was right at 70 per cent. It was virtually the same in 1972 and 1971.

Her latest figures indicate that she had collected nearly $40,000 more this year than was collected during the same period in 1973.

She reported the taxes from lending institutions had already arrived in her office.

Both city-school and county tax offices offer a three per cent discount on taxes paid during October. In the county office, a two per cent discount is offered for payment in November and a one per cent discount is offered for payment in December.

Taxes will be declared delinquent if not paid by Feb. 1 in both offices.

After that date, the taxes uncollected begin accruing penalty and interest charges at the rate of about 1 1/2 per cent per month.

Meals-On-Wheels Is 'People Helping People'

A volunteer service which lets folks in the community "help others" is the idea behind the Meals-On-Wheels group which was begun here in the fall of 1971.

The first meeting for discussing the organization of the meals service was held at the United Methodist Church with other churches in the city being asked to enlist volunteers in helping with the project.

"Meals-On-Wheels is not a charity project — recipients may pay cash or use food stamps to help pay for their own meals. The Meals-On-Wheels service is not only available to the elderly, but to anyone needing such a service," stated a working volunteer.

The Meals-On-Wheels service is available to those persons just out of the hospital recuperating at home alone, regardless of their age.

The original groundwork of Meals-On-Wheels here was done by Jo Jackson and Betty Holcomb and at an early meeting the coordinators elected to get the service rolling were Betty Markham, Peggy Smallwood and Kate Gamble.

Elton Cox, local attorney, helped draw up the charter for the group and Eddie Holcomb does the Internal Revenue Service work for the group. W. F. Haggard conducts an annual audit of the books.

After operating out of the United Methodist Church here two years, the Meals-On-Wheels service office was recently moved to the library at the First Presbyterian Church where residents desiring information about the service may contact a worker between 11:30 a.m. and 1:15 p.m. each weekday. The office phone is 655-9862 where local citizens may refer the name of anyone needing and/or wanting the services offered through the Meals service or contact Evelyn Frieze, 655-4469.

Dieticians at Neblett Memorial Hospital cook and prepare the meals for the service under a diet guide as prescribed by the participants' doctor. The meals are being served on new Aladdin serving trays made available through the Amarillo Meals-On-Wheels program. The trays are designed to prevent spills and insure cold and hot foods being served the participants.

Various local organizations and individuals help with financial assistance of the program and anyone desiring to make a contribution may send it to Meals-On-Wheels, P. O. Box 104, Canyon or leave it with the treasurer, Betty Markham. Contributions are tax deductible and are used for general operating expenses, for serving trays and as meal subsidization when needed.

During the past year 1,203 meals were served throughout the community and were delivered by 30 drivers involving 850 hours of volunteer service. In addition 30 office workers were involved and the group's recent report showed that $340 was contributed from organizations and individuals.

The meals are picked up and delivered to the door of the participant through volunteer drivers. Betty Rathjen, 655-3584, is in charge of persons wishing to submit their voluntary service as drivers. In addition to volunteer drivers, the meals are delivered by various members of the sheriff's Department when the weather is extra bad during snowstorms, or when streets are icy.

Emergency drivers who fill in when a regular volunteer is unable to participate are arranged through Mrs. L. S. Johnston. The food service coordinator is Frances Yows and Mattie Sue Howell and Rose Kinzer are the coordinators for the office work required.

"The volunteers get a personal benefit from their contact with others," stated publicity chairman, Jane Stephens.

The Meals-On-Wheels service is directed by a board which presently includes: Dr. Ruth Lowes, president; Jim Underwood, vice president; Lynn Melber, secretary; and Betty Markham, treasurer; and Mildred Cannon, Sister Marcella Schultz, Evelyn Frieze, Betty Holcomb, Rose Kinzer, Rev. Bill Kent, Marion Higdon and Frances Yows are also on the board.

FIVE GENERATIONS were visiting with Mrs. T. T. Fain, 97, recently including her great-grandchildren, John and Toina Grainger, and their mother, Janet Grainger, and grandmother, Sybil Jester, all of Franklinville, North Carolina and Mrs. R. D. Oldham on the right is a great-grandmother to the youngest of the generations pictured. Mrs. Fain makes her home with the Oldhams at 1301 4th Avenue in Canyon.

Poll Power Campaign Urges Voter Turnout

The Canyon Federated Council (composed of Canyon Study Club, Heritage Womens Club, Sue Hite Womens Club, University Study Club, and Womens Book Club) in conjunction with the Texas Federation of Womens Clubs, announces an ambitious "Poll Power Campaign" to get 75% of the already registered voters to the polls on November 5.

Mrs. Tom Cannon, area chairman for Poll Power, says that strictly non-partisan campaign will involve every man, woman, and child in our area. Figures show that only 28% of the eligible voters in Texas cared enough to vote in the last election.

"This will be a phone effort to encourage all to vote," noted Mrs. Cannon. "This is an all out campaign to show the world that the people of Canyon care about their government."

Other local organizations and volunteers are welcome to participate in the "Poll Power Campaign" with the members of these five womens clubs.

Going somewhere? Or been? The Canyon News wants to know about it — and so do its readers.

Cancer Films Are Available For Programs

A film explaining "breast cancer" is available for local womens groups to view at regular programming according to the Randall County Board of the American Cancer Society.

Other films, suitable for either men or womens groups, are also available through the local board with Mary Alice Hines, 655-9978, or Sandra Meek, 656-2221, scheduling the films.

ABOUT

ROLLERS?

Religious fervency was once the butt of unfunny jokes. Time was when it was less than popular or proper to engage oneself in "religious fanaticism." He would become the object of ridicule or scorn. One had to be a part of the religious establishment to be accepted.

That was tragic. Because it made a lot of people feel they had to remain within the confines of a decaying, archaic system.

Not so today. You can be you. You can experience freedom of expression and involvement in Christ without fear.

Liberty in worship, sincerity in service, relevance in creed. That's what it's all about.

Eagles Rope Rangers To Gain District Lead

The Canyon Eagles roped the Perryton Rangers Friday night at Frank Kimbrough Memorial Stadium as they downed the Rangers 14-0 on a beautiful night for football.

The Eagles took the opening kickoff and moved the ball, from their own 33 yard line, the length of the field for a TD using only four minutes and 19 seconds on the clock. Adrian Foil was the only Eagle to get his hands on the ball in order to carry the pig skin. The PAT was good by Jimmy Ward and the Eagles took a lead they would never lose.

Foil was the leading ground gainer for the Eagles Friday as he ran for 113 yards. He did not play any of the fourth quarter and only the first few minutes of the third quarter.

Craig Johnson aided the Eagles in the rushing department with 73 yards. Ward added 17, Larry Pate had two, and Garre LaGrone gained four. In the air, the Eagles completed two passes out of six attempts and had only one interception.

The second pass from LaGrone that was complete went to Pate for 16 yards. The first completed pass went to Eric Van Pelt for 29 yards.

In the punting department, Kenny Bassinger booted six punts for a 32 yard average.

The Eagles had nine first downs compared to 11 first downs for the Rangers. The Eagles had a total of 281 yards rushing and passing. The Rangers had only 217 yards total.

The first half to only 86 yards total offense. In the second half the Rangers came back with 131 yards. The Eagles had 203 total yards in the first half.

Following the Eagle's first TD, Perryton took the ball on their 43 yard line and moved to their 48 where they were forced to punt.

The Eagles, with the ball on their 15, began to move the ball up field. They moved the ball to the 36 yard line where the Ranger defense held. The Eagles fumbled the ball on a hand off and Perryton recovered the fumble. Perryton moved the ball to the Eagle 21 where they attempted a field goal on fourth down. The field goal attempt was short and the Eagles got the ball on their 20 yard line.

Canyon was able to move the ball only to their 29 yard line where they were forced to punt. Perryton could not move the ball and were forced to return the ball to Canyon via the punt. The Eagles were called for clipping and illegal motion on the series, plus an incomplete pass and a run attempt which netted no gain, the Eagles were forced to punt.

The ball continued to be traded back and forth. Canyon knocked at the Perryton goal twice without being able to score. The Eagles lost the ball to Perryton on a fumble at the Perryton one yard line.

On first down for Perryton, they attempted to punt out of the end zone instead of being caught for a safety. The snap for center was fumbled by the punter and the Eagle's Jimmy Ward covered the ball in the end zone for a TD. Only 1:23 was left in the half.

Ward added the PAT and the Eagles led 14-0.

The second half was a closely fought contest with Perryton gaining field advantage. Perryton could not take advantage of the breaks that came their way during the game primarily due to the defensive play of the Eagles.

Miss WT Crowned

Miss WTSU was crowned Friday night at the Amarillo High School auditorium. The pageant was patterned after the Miss Texas and Miss America pageants. Debra Denise LeGrand of Conroe was named Miss WTSU.

The new Miss WT was chosen from among 24 candidates. She will reign WTSU hostess and will participate next summer in the Miss Texas pageant.

Perryton, with less than seven minutes to go in the game, began to play desperation ball. They called two to three plays in the huddle. With less than three minutes to go in the game, it seemed as though they had given up as they were called for delay of game.

The Canyon Eagles travel to

9th Grade Purple In Playoffs

The Canyon team racked up 26 points in the first half and 20 points in the second half, while holding Plainview to only one TD.

Bobby Scott led in the ground gaining with 160 yards. Billy Holladay ran for 100 yards.

Scott scored the first TD of the game for Canyon on a 20 yard run. The PAT came on a pass from Robert Dustman to David McKay.

The second TD came on a Dustman plunge for one yard. The PAT failed.

In the second quarter, Holladay moved the ball one yard to score the third TD of the game and Scott also scored a one yard TD. Both PATs failed.

With the Canyon Eagles winning Friday night, they are in sole possession of first place. They have beaten the two top teams, other than the Eagles, in district competition - Perryton and Dumas.

It can only be hoped that the "Bunch" do not see Muleshoe and Levelland as push overs. It will take two more good ballgames for the Eagles to take home the district crown.

Canyon is now 2-0 in district play.

To those who have been faithful to read this column - thank you. This will be the last column for me to write. I will assume duties as Education and Youth director at the Parkview Baptist Church in Laurel, Mississippi, Monday.

It has been a lot of fun covering the Eagles and Buffaloes. It looks as though the fun is about to start, though. Both teams are vying for their respective conference titles and may just win them.

Canyon should advance to regional and the Buffs will be third as far as predictions from here go.

Students Have Day Off

Students in Canyon public schools will have the day off Friday November 8 while teachers will use the day for in-service training.

November 8 will also be the day for the District 16 Texas State Teachers Association meeting in Amarillo. The meeting will begin Thursday, November 7, at 6:30 p.m. when the house of delegates will meet at Caprock High School.

Delegates from Canyon schools are Dave Corley, Mary Jane Reeves, Dr. Fred Stoker, Jean Galloway, Martha Hester, Dr. E. B. Posey, Patsy Sommer, Luther Lawless and Herman Demus.

On Friday, members of TSTA will hear Justin Wilson, Louisiana comedian, and group sessions on curriculum and administration will be held.

The meeting is only for TSTA members. Other teachers will be at their schools for a day of work.

Basketball in Canyon continues to build to an exciting season. The Canyon High School varsity teams have one thing in common - they both lack experience and height.

WT basketball seems to be developing a team of both experience and some height.

When the first tip-off of the season comes it should give Canyon fans some idea of the type of teams being developed. WT should get off to a good start and continue to have a good season even though they are in the tough Missouri Valley Conference. The Buffs have good coaching and good material this year.

Basketball spirit for the Buffs continues to climb. More tickets have been sold this year than in past years. Over 500 tickets have been sold to season ticket holders this year compared to a little over 300 last year at this time.

Money wise that means WT has made close to the total receipts of all of last year from the basketball program at this early date.

The first tip off of the season for the Canyon boys and girls varsity will not be as picturesque of the remainder of the season as will WT.

Both teams at the high school have their work cut out for them as they prepare for the district season - a district which both won last year. Canyon fans should not give up on a winning basketball season if the high school teams happen to drop the first game or so this season. As these youngsters gain experience, they will give any team a good race for the title.

Players to keep a watchful eye on at the high school include Lynn Wright and Ken Cooper on the boys team and Robena Johnson on the girls squad.

Convention which will be held at the AC on the WTSU campus.

Twenty eight schools will be represented. Officers for the following year will be elected.

Mr. and Miss FTA will be elected for the district. Rosalie Galloway, of Canyon, will be competing for the Miss FTA title.

Rick Mantooth will be a candidate for vice president of the district.

Voting delegates from CHS will be Don Stribling, Sheryl Sommer, Marcella Patterson, DeAnn Holmes, Sheryl Dees, Robbie Harbison, Rick Mantooth and Janet Lasher.

There are 84 members of the FTA chapter at CHS. Sponsors for the group are Bessie Ellis and Opal Freeman.

Becky Hall, Randall County Extension Agent in the area of home economics, attended an associational meeting of the district Thursday in Amarillo.

Mrs. N. W. Roberts had as her guests this week her daughter, Mrs. Barney Mills of Aspen, Colorado and Norma Winingham of El Paso. Also, her son, David Roberts and family of Amarillo were her guests.
